HILDA SMITH ALLOTMENTS - REFERENCES

https://pia-journal.co.uk/articles/10.5334/pia.3790/).

Stewart Squires and Catherine Wilson eds; Growing Better: Lincolnshire and the Potato, Lincoln, Society of Lincolnshire History and Archaeology, 2011.

Kate Orr interview with Maurice Addison, 13 January 1999, Uncatalogued Maurice Addison Archives (henceforth indicated as UMAA), Navenby Parish Council Office, The Venue, Navenby.

‘Allotment Site Statistics’ and ‘Allotment Sites’ (revised June 8th 2017)’, The Survey of Lincoln - Allotments Project (accessed 17 January 2018 through www.thesurveyoflincoln.co.uk/allotments-project/statistics);

‘Old Lincoln Allotment photographs’, The Survey of Lincoln – Allotments Project (accessed 18 January 2018 through www.thesurveyoflincoln.co.uk/allotments-project/photos);

Mrs Smith’s Cottage Museum Archive (hereafter, MSCMA) diary sequence NAV/MS/553-564.

MSCMA, diary sequence NAV/MS/553-564.

MSCMA, NAV/MS/551, 553-554, 556-558, 560.

Bill Goodhand, ‘Changes in the Quality of Rural Life: A Case Study of Welbourn’, in Mills,
Twentieth Century Lincolnshire, p. 345, p. 349;
Quinault, ‘Britain 1950’, pp. 18-19; see the reports by correspondents for Navenby, Boothby Graffoe, Harmston, Metheringham, Waddington, Welbourn and Wellingore in the Lincolnshire Chronicle, 1950-1960;
For example, MSCMA, NAV/MS/ 553-556, 558-564.
Letter from Maurice Addison, ‘To Whom It May Concern’, Reference Old Blacksmith Shop, East Road, Navenby, 8 January 2007, UMAA; Acton, Allotment Gardens; Taylor, A Taste for Gardening.
Maurice Addison, Typed sheet about events that occurred in Navenby, undated, in brown cardboard box, Uncatalogued Maurice Addison Archive, Navenby Parish Office, The Venue, Navenby.  